RACE TO THE FINISH

MARTY MAKES A CHOICE

With the location filming in Sonora complete, there were still a few present-day scenes left to film for Back to the Future Part III.

ON TRACK
The scenes of the DeLorean being rolled onto the railway line marked the end of filming on location at Sonora for the Back to the Future crew.

The final scenes shot at Sonora for Back to the Future Part III were completed on 16th November 1989. It was a brief scene, involving Marty and Doc putting the DeLorean onto the railway line and Doc discussing the heartbreaking hazards of time travel, but the sequence was not without hazards of its own, as it was filmed on a working railway line. With careful scheduling, filming was completed between the appearances of modern trains, and though Marty and Doc used a wagon, a forklift truck provided some extra muscle to lift the DeLorean on and off the rails more quickly.

And so Michael J. Fox, Christopher Lloyd and the crew said a fond farewell to Sonora and Jamestown which had been their base of operations for some ten weeks. Though the production moved on, a large portion of the set was left behind. The structures remained standing in Sonora until 1996, when, by a strange coincidence, a bolt of lightning struck one of the buildings and the set burned down.

A TRIP TO OXNARD

After additional filming in Monument Valley and some studio scenes filmed on the Universal sound stages, the crew moved to Oxnard in California. Here, Marty, taking his brand new Toyota 4x4 for a drive with his girlfriend Jennifer (Elisabeth Shue), would be goaded into a dangerous street race by his crazy friend Douglas J. Needles in a red 1978 Ford F-150.

Needles was played again by Michael Balzary, a.k.a Flea from the Red Hot Chili Peppers. He had previously been seen on a video screen as Marty's 48-year old co-worker in 2015, here Flea was out of his earlier 'middle aged' make-up and on superb grinning, gibbering form.

STREET RACERS

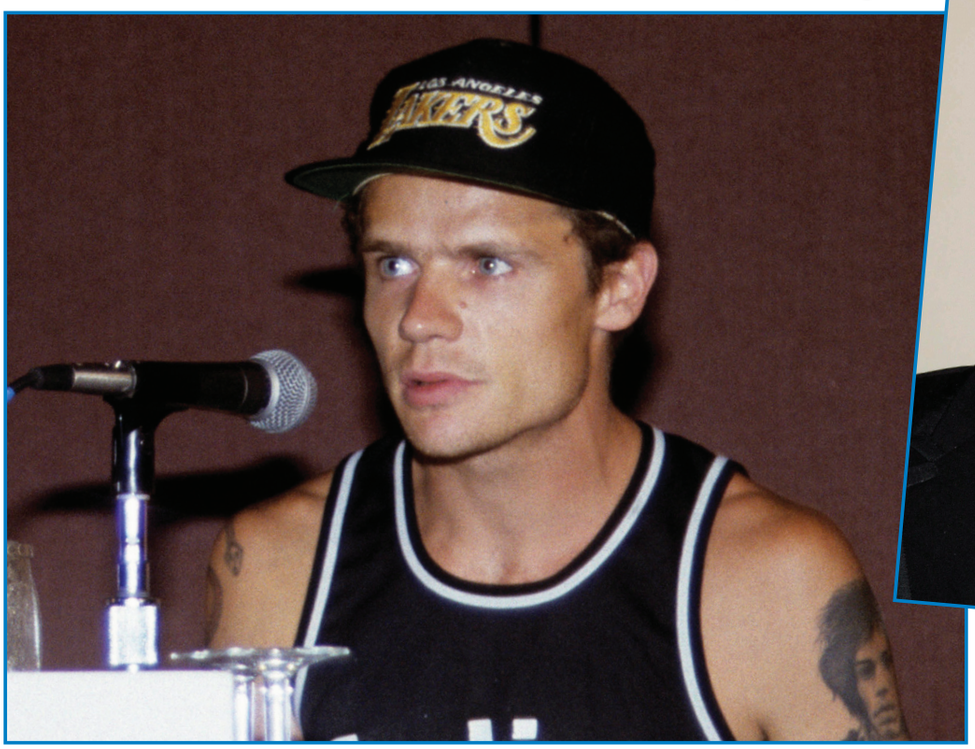

When Needles challenges Marty to a drag race, Marty turns his 4x4 around and avoids the catastrophic accident referred to in Part II.

The actors making up Needles' posse had all previously played members of Tannen gangs. In the passenger seat next to Needles was Christopher Wynne, who was a member of Mad Dog Tannen's gang in 1885. On the back of the truck, in a dark jacket, was J.J. Cohen, who had played Skinhead in Biff's gang in 1955 (and the alternative 1985) and next to him in a yellow jacket, was Ricky Dean Logan, who had played Data in Griff's gang in 2015.

The scene has a happy outcome as Marty decides not to rise to Needles' taunts, and turns the 4x4 around. The red truck speeds off, narrowly avoiding a Rolls Royce Silver Cloud. Marty's disastrous crash with the expensive car was part of the 2015 timeline, but now time has been changed for the better... ■ TO BE CONTINUED...

FLEA

— MICHAEL PETER BALZARY A.K.A. DOUGLAS J NEEDLES —

Marty's nemesis Needles was played by Flea, bass player with the Red Hot Chili Peppers.

In 1985 and 2015, Marty McFly's life is blighted by the leering face of Douglas J Needles. In 1985, he's a cocky kid who goads Marty into potentially lethal street races. By 2015, he's Marty's superior at work, tricking Marty into illegal business transactions under the nose of their boss, ultimately getting Marty fired from the Fujitsu company. In another cameo by a musician in the Back to the Future canon, Needles was played by Michael Peter Balzary, better known as Flea, bassist of the Red Hot Chili Peppers.

Balzary was born in Australia in 1962 and moved to New York with his family when he was seven. He was nicknamed Flea as a child because it seemed he could never sit still, and the name stuck. He sometimes performed as 'Mike B the Flea'. His family later moved to Los Angeles where, in 1983, he joined three classmates from Fairfax High School, Anthony Kiedis, Hillel Slovak and Jack Irons, to form the Red Hot Chili Peppers. Their style was a funk-punk synthesis, also influenced by Flea's early obsession with jazz.

There have been several changes of personnel but Flea and Kiedis have remained constant throughout and the band released their eleventh studio album The Getaway in 2016. ■

QUICK FACTS!

FLEA BITES

- Back to the Future Parts II and III are not Flea's only acting credits by any means, as he has appeared in more than 20 films including My Own Private Idaho, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, The Big Lebowski and Baby Driver.
- He has collaborated with music artists including Johnny Cash, Tom Waits and Alanis Morissette, and had a butterfly guitar designed for him by Damien Hirst.
- Flea is the co-founder of Silverlake Conservatory of Music, a not-for-profit music education organization founded in 2001 for underprivileged children. He said "Public education has dropped the ball by cutting music programs."
- In 2009 he founded The FleaBass company to create quality budget basses for beginners.
