DRIVE TIME

Fit the power coil frame and grilles to the front of your DeLorean.

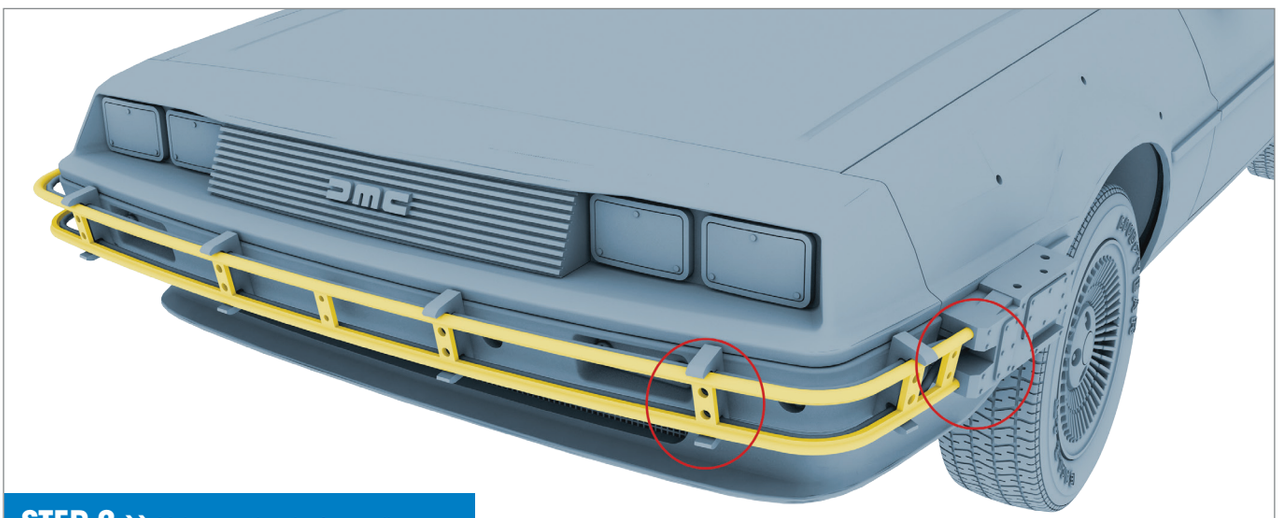

Using the step-by-step guide, fit the power coil frame at the front of your DeLorean and add three grilles.

POWER COIL FRAME AND GRILLES

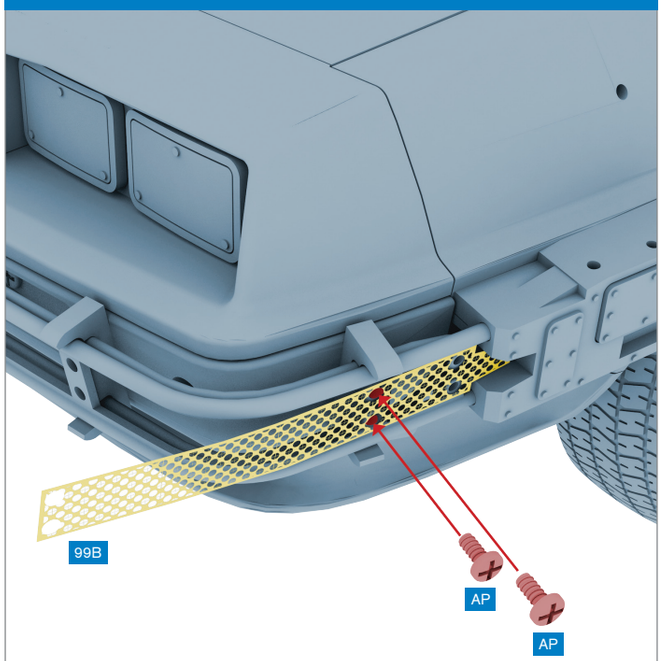

STEP 1 ›› Position the power coil frame 99A around the front of your DeLorean, ensuring that the ends fit into the holes indicated on both sides.

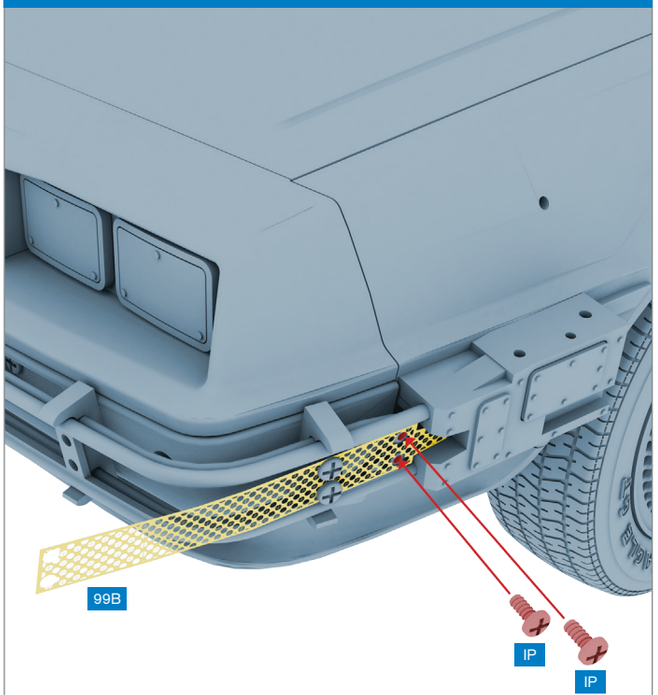

STEP 2 ›› Make sure that the frame clips securely into all of the brackets as shown.

FS_p04_07_DeLorean_UK_099.indd 4 14/09/2023 10:18

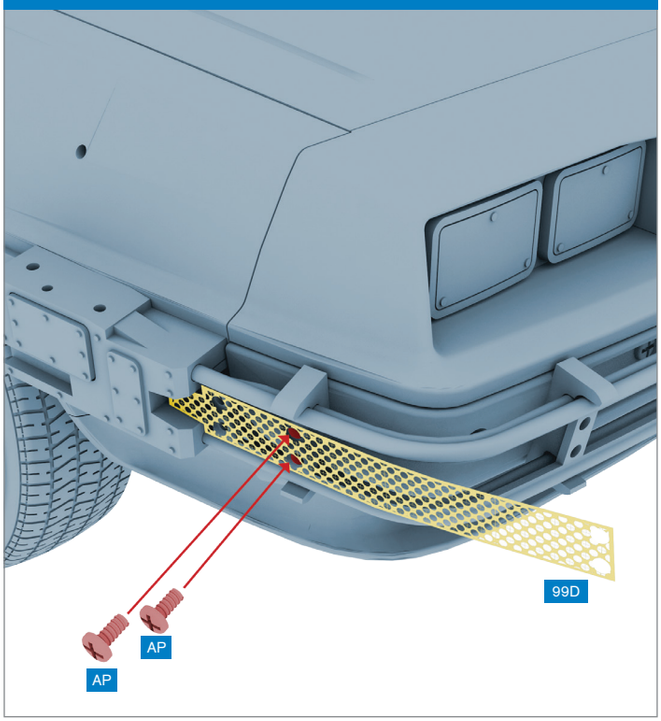

STEP 3 ›› On the left side, hold the grille 99B in place with two AP screws as shown.

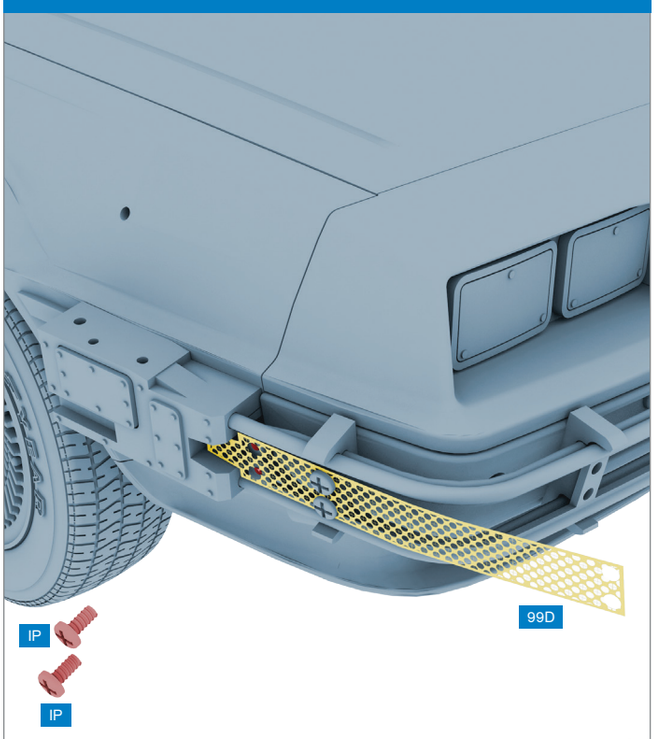

STEP 4 ›› Then fix two IP screws in the holes shown.

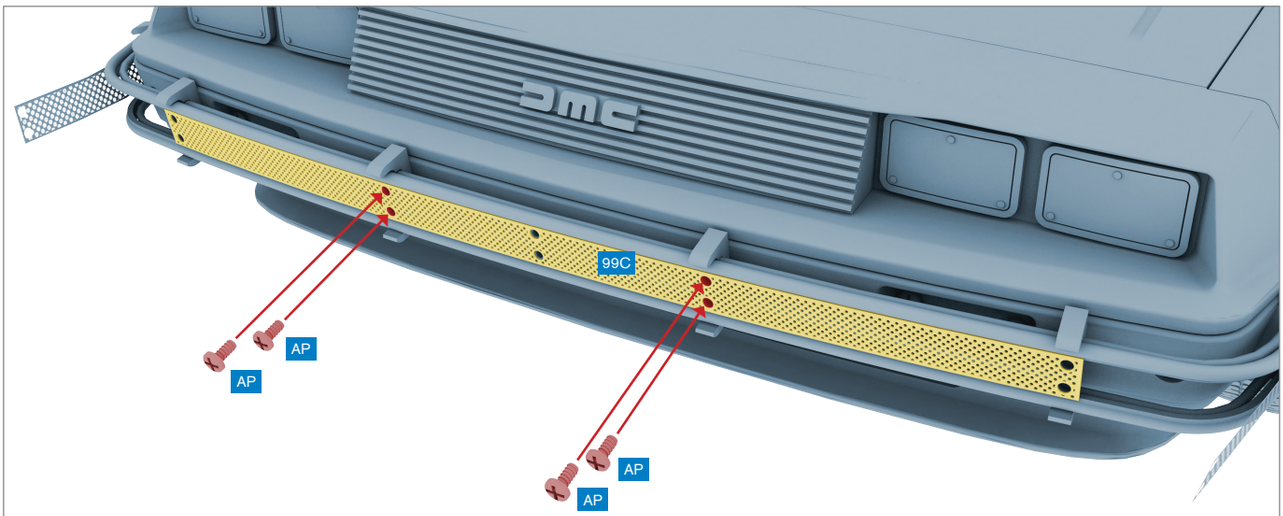

STEP 5 ›› On the right side, hold the grille 99D in place with two AP screws as shown.

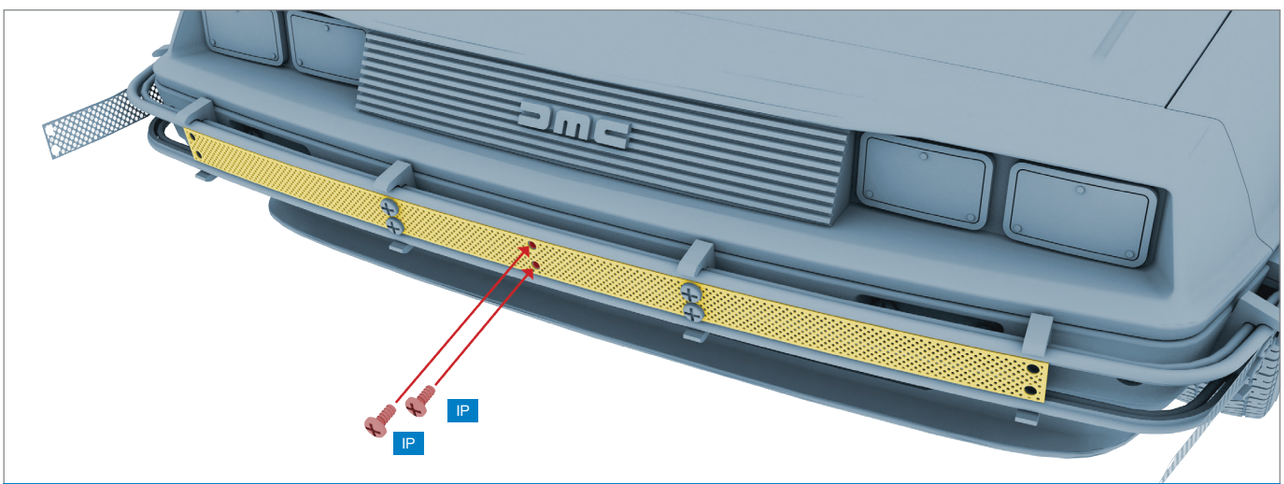

STEP 6 ›› Affix two IP screws in the holes shown.

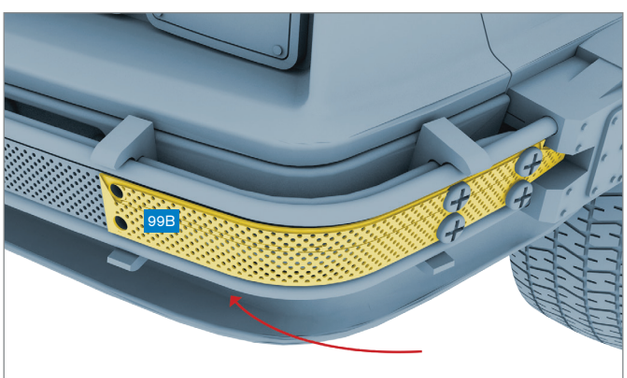

FS_p04_07_DeLorean_UK_099.indd 5 14/09/2023 10:18

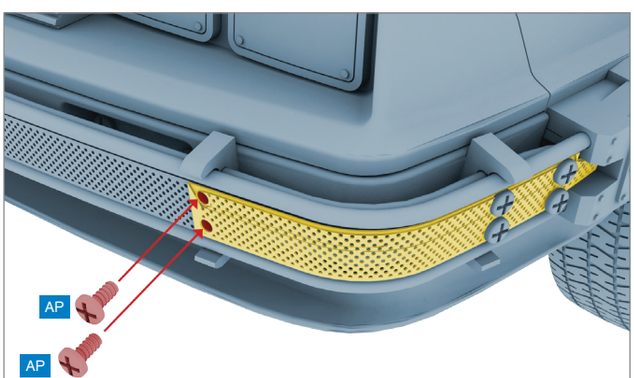

STEP 7 ›› Place the grille 99C in position on the frame. Fix four AP screws in the holes shown.

STEP 8 ›› Add two further IP screws in the central holes of the grille.

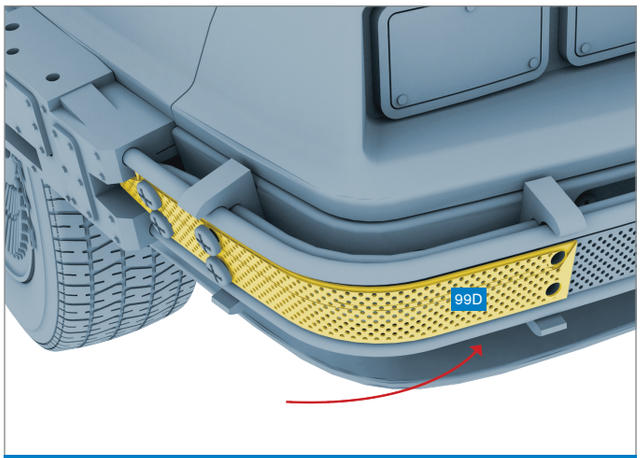

STEP 9 ›› Carefully bend the left-side grille 99B around the front of the frame 99A, overlapping 99C.

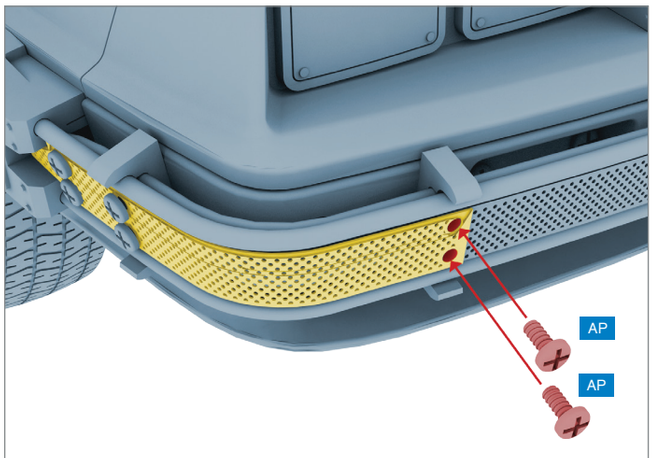

STEP 10 ›› Fix the grille in position with two AP screws.

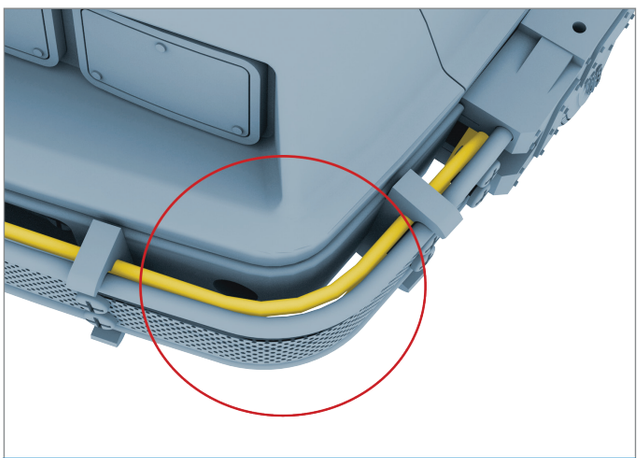

FS_p04_07_DeLorean_UK_099.indd 6 14/09/2023 10:18

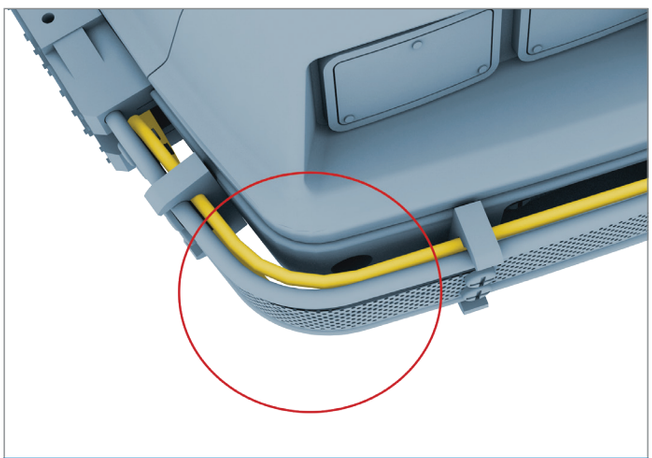

STEP 11 ›› On the other side, carefully bend the grille 99D around the front of the frame 99A.

STEP 12 ›› Fix the grille in position with two AP screws.

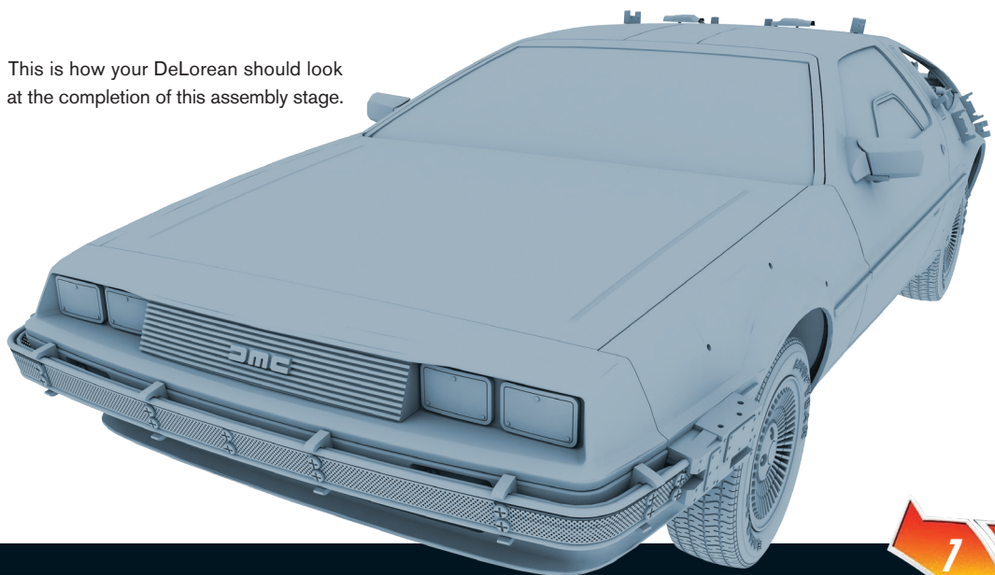

STEP 13 ›› At the corners, ensure the lighting filaments 98F (top and bottom) sit neatly behind the frame.

STEP 14 ›› Check on the other side that the filaments sit neatly behind the frame.

This is how your DeLorean should look at the completion of this assembly stage.

THE HILL VALLEY PRESERVATION SOCIETY

UK FANDOM AND FUNDRAISING

A look at the UK fan club devoted to the Back to the Future trilogy which also raises money for charity.

This page © Hill Valley Preservation Society

To fans of the Back to the Future franchise, the Hill Valley Preservation Society needs no introduction. Or does it? From the moment earnest, bespectacled Elsa Raven in the original Back to the Future film in 1985 bellowed those famous words "Save the clock tower!", the first Hill Valley Preservation Society was born.

Fast forward 30 or so years, to east London, 2014, where Secret Cinema hosted their immersive screening of Back to the Future (see last issue). Hill Valley was lovingly recreated, and it was here that Back to the Future fans and collectors Stephen Parkes and Matthew Harrison were destined to meet and form the second Hill Valley Preservation Society.

LIKE-MINDED

"We chatted about our love for Back to the Future and how we both had a collection of props," said Stephen. "Matthew was doing a local event in Portsmouth and asked if I'd join him displaying our collections. I said yes and we spent the weekend formulating the idea of the Hill Valley Preservation Society. We'd met a lot of people at the Secret Cinema and both belonged to a Facebook group called the Positive People of Hill Valley. They all came on board and helped out at events and helped us with design and organising fundraisers and have been a real asset. We decided to use Facebook as our platform as Matt could set up the group and organise things. We don't have regular meetings as such, but Matt and myself are always

FAMOUS FACES

Donald Fullilove (Goldie Wilson), Frances Lee McCain (Stella Baines) and James Tolkan (Mr Strickland) stop by the Hill Valley Preservation Socitety stand at the London Film and Comic Con, June 2015.

in contact about events that we are asked to attend. We couldn't do it without help from a core bunch of people who get my utmost thanks."

GLOBE-TROTTERS

The fans have since travelled the globe showing off their prop and costume collections and raising money in aid of TeamFox, the Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's research.

In June of 2015, the London Film and Comic-Con, organised by Showmasters Events, saw many of the trilogy's cast reunite. They posed for photographs, signed autographs, gave talks and met fans. 2015 is a special year in the annals of Back to the Future as it is, of course, the year Marty travels to in the second film. The Hill Valley Preservation Society took their prop and costume display to the event and got to meet the cast, and show them their award-winning display. Over the course of the weekend, the H.V.P.S. stand proved a popular place to hang out and chat, with visitors including James Tolkan, Frances Lee McCain and Donald Fullilove stopping by...

Next issue we look at the UK festivities for 'Future Day' – October 21st 2015.

FANTASTIC STORY MAGAZINE

IT'S OUT OF THIS WORLD!

A 'pulp' science fiction magazine is George McFly's choice of bedtime reading.

When Marty McFly pays a late-night visit to the young man who will (with a bit of persuading) become his father, he goes disguised in a radiation suit and calls himself Darth Vader. The plan is to terrify George into taking Lorraine Baines (Marty's mother) to the school dance, thereby securing the future timeline. Marty knows that George should be receptive to this performance as he is an avid reader of science fiction magazines. Indeed, he has fallen asleep looking at a copy of Fantastic Story magazine with a huge alien striding across a ruined landscape with terrified mortals fleeing before it in terror.

Fantastic Story was published from 1950 to 1955 by Best Books, a subsidiary of Standard Magazines. Initially quarterly, it was not originally planned to carry new fiction, but was intended to reprint stories from the 1920s and 30s. However, from the first issue, the magazine contained at least one new story and gave a start to a number of young writers who went on to much bigger things.

There were also new illustrations from Virgil Finlay, Ed Emsh and Earle Bergey. Jack Coggins painted the cover of the October 1954 issue, which is seen on George McFly's pillow. ■

QUICK FACTS!

PULP SCIENCE FICTION

● Cheap paperback story magazines of all kinds were produced in the USA from the 1920s and were known as 'pulps' because they were printed on inferior quality wood-pulp paper. The first science fiction magazine, Amazing Stories, was launched in 1926 by Hugo Gernsback.

Fantastic Story magazine featured new stories from, among others, Richard Matheson, Walter M Miller and Gordon R Dickson. Leigh Brackett, who worked on the screenplay for The Empire Strikes Back, was another contributing writer.
