DRIVE TIME

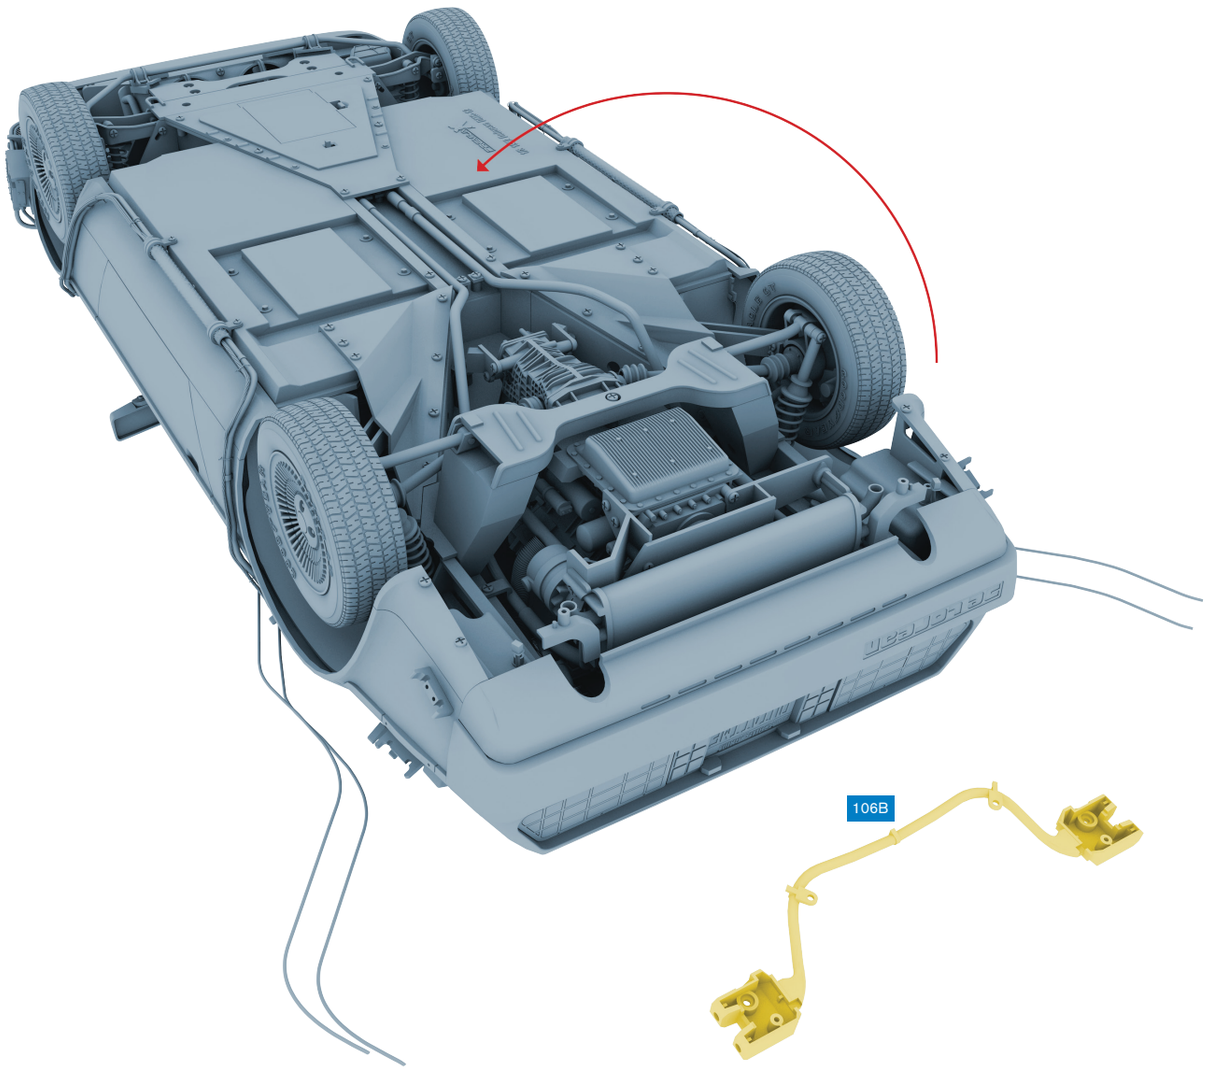

Add more LEDs and cables to the underside of your DeLorean model.

In this issue, you will add LEDs and a support bar to the rear underside of your DeLorean, by following the step-by-step guide.

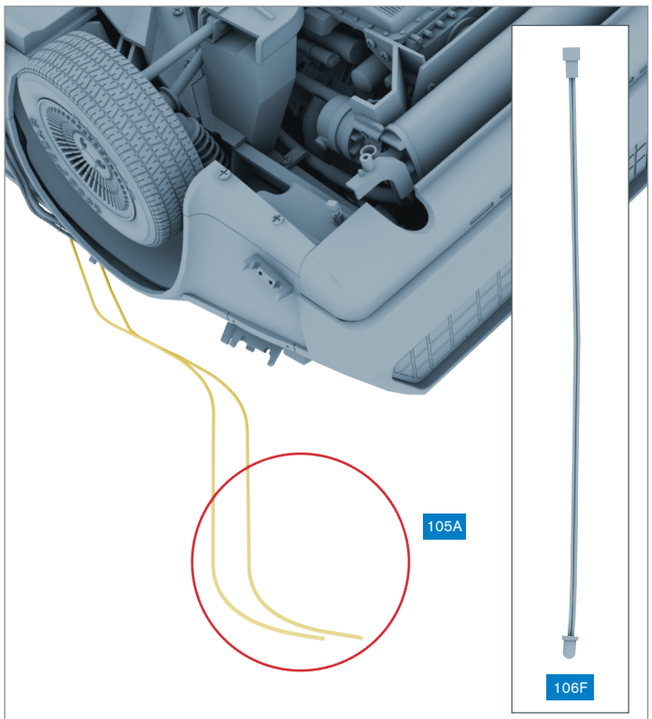

LEDS, CABLES AND SUPPORT BAR

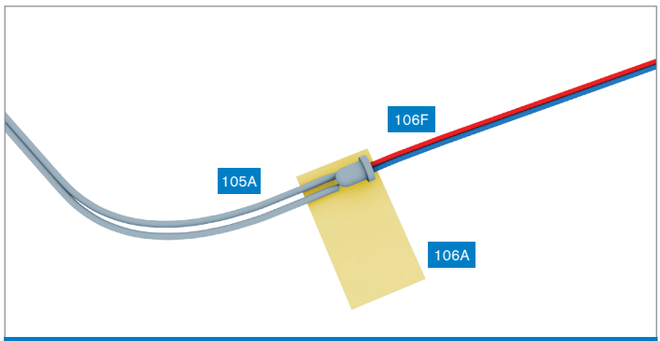

STEP 1 ›› Carefully turn the model upside-down onto its roof. You may want to rest it on a towel or cloth to protect it. Position part 106B at the rear as shown, with the openings facing upwards.

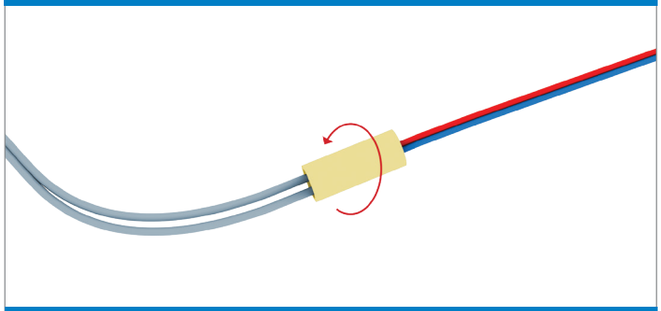

FS_p04_09_DeLorean_UK_106.indd 4 13/04/2023 16:44

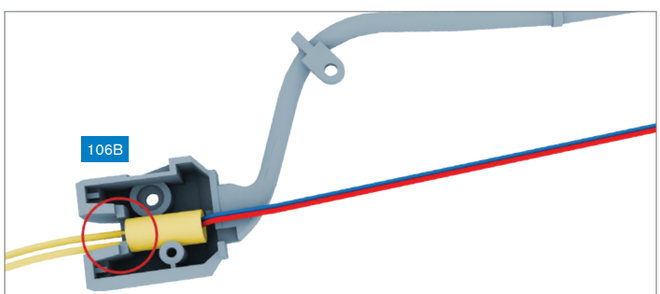

STEP 2 ›› Take the trailing ends of the filaments 105A (circled) and one of the red and blue LED wires 106F.

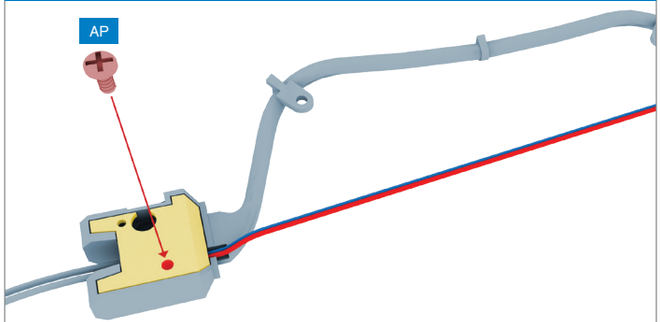

STEP 3A ›› Place the LED and filaments on a piece of adhesive tape (106A). Ensure the ends of the filaments are touching the LED.

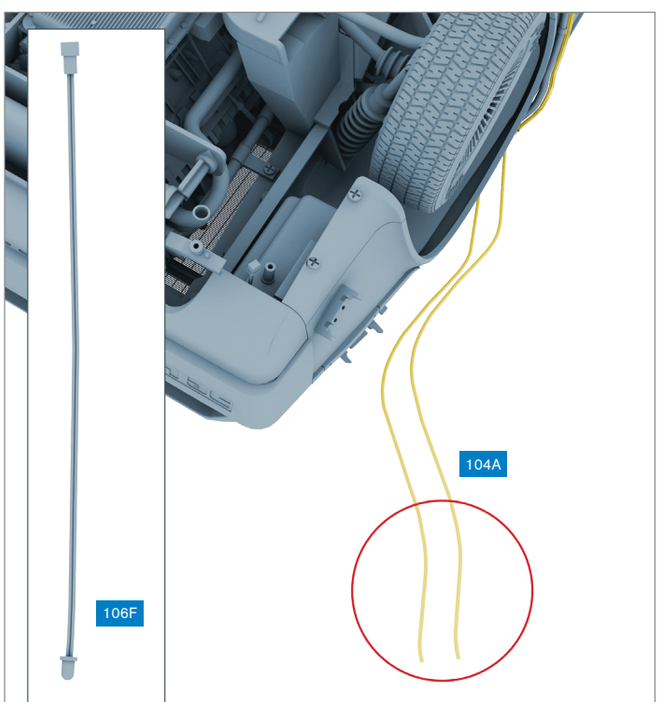

STEP 3B ›› Wrap the tape around the LED and filaments to keep them secure.

STEP 4A ›› Fit the taped-together LED and filaments into 106B, ensuring that the filaments fit into the notch as shown (circled).

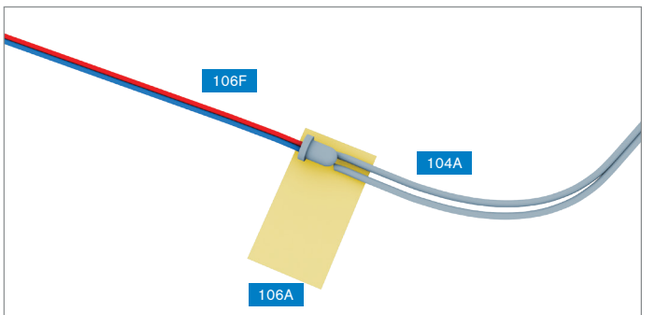

STEP 4B ›› Fit the cover 106D on top of 106B as shown, taking care not to damage the wires. Hold 106D in place with an AP screw.

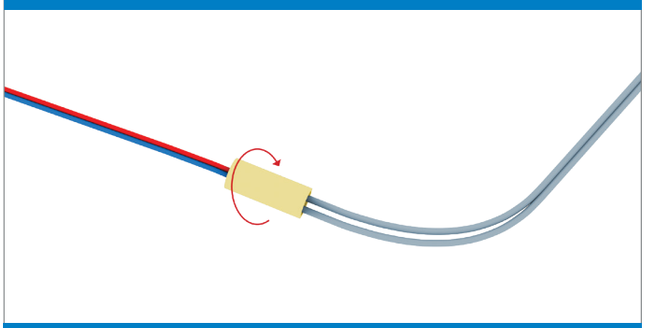

STEP 5 ›› Now, on the driver's side, take the trailing ends of the filaments 104A, and the other red and blue LED wire 106F.

STEP 6A ››  Place the LED and filaments on a piece of adhesive tape (106A). Ensure the ends of the filaments are touching the LED.

STEP 6B ››  Wrap the tape around the LED and filaments to keep them secure.

STEP 7A ››  Fit the taped-together LED and filaments into 106B, ensuring that the filaments fit into the notch as shown (circled).

STEP 7B ››  Fit part 106C onto 106B as shown, taking care not to trap the wires. Hold in place with an AP screw.

STEP 8 ››  You my have to rotate parts 26E and 26F (circled) slightly in order to ensure a good fit for part 106B in the next step.

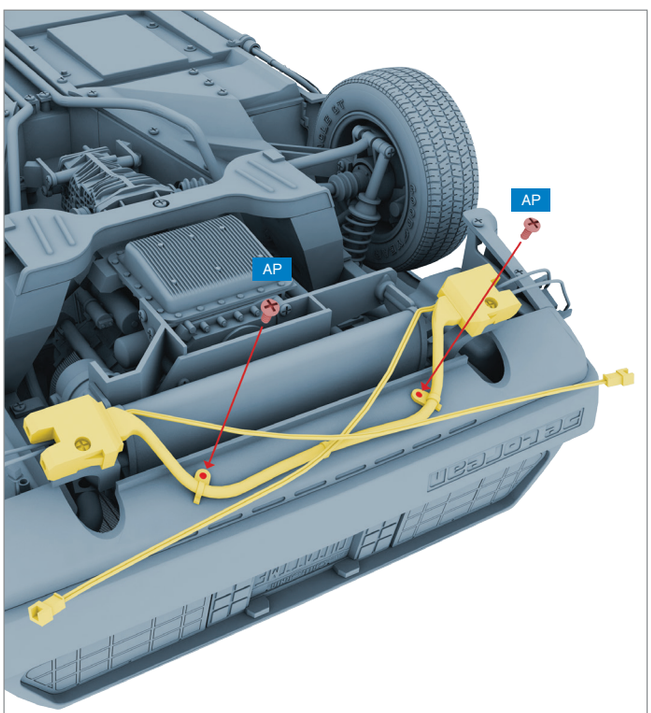

FS_p04_09_DeLorean_UK_106.indd 6 13/04/2023 16:44

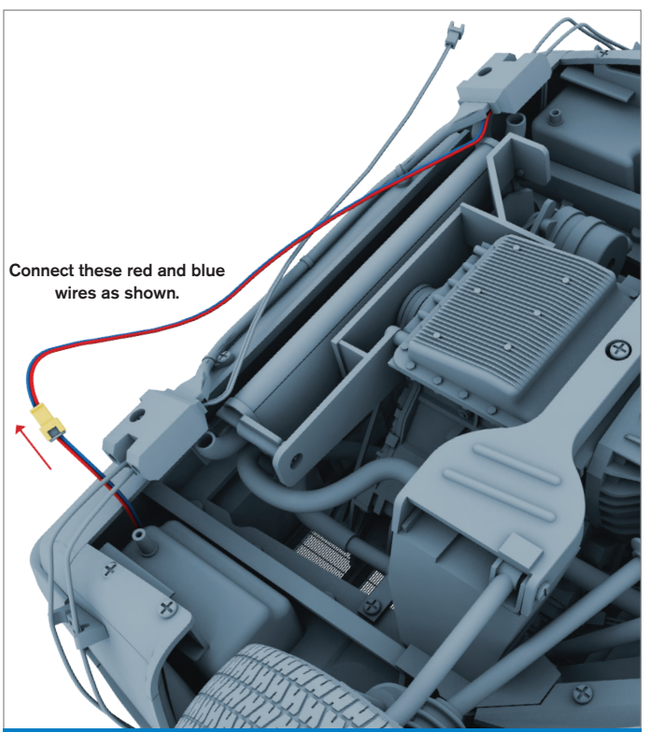

STEP 9 ›› Carefully turn over the 106B assembly and position the posts on parts 26E and 26F in the sockets shown.

STEP 10 ›› Fix the 106B assembly in place with two AP screws.

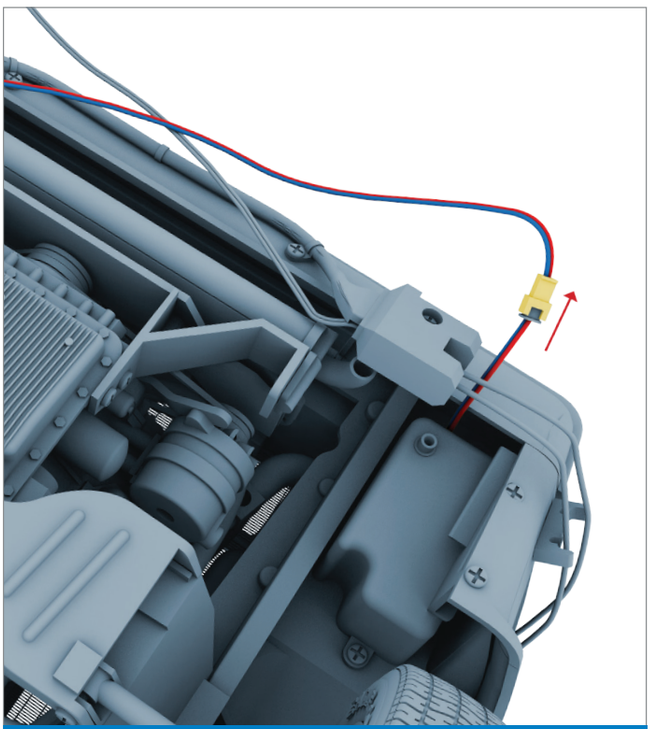

STEP 11 ›› Affix two more AP screws in the holes shown.

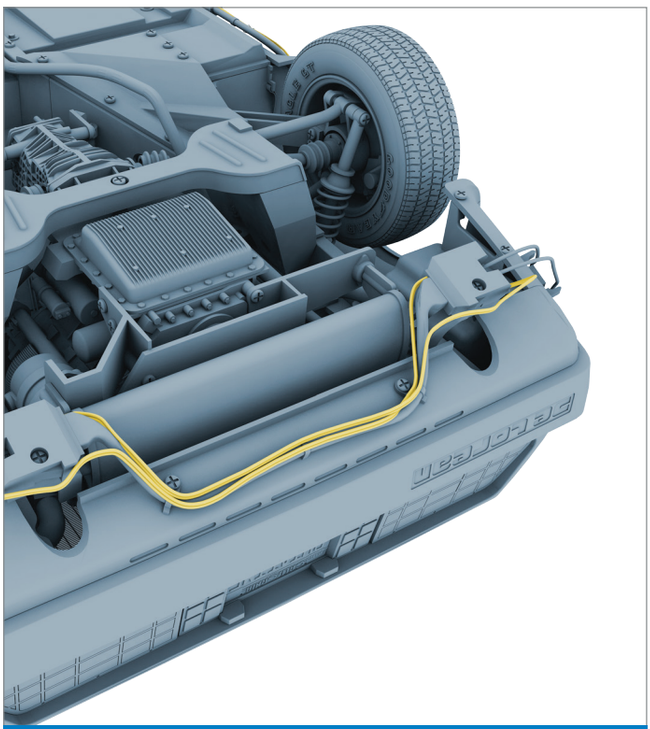

STEP 12 ›› Locate the plug on the end of the blue and red wire on the left side. Connect it to the end of the LED wire 106F.

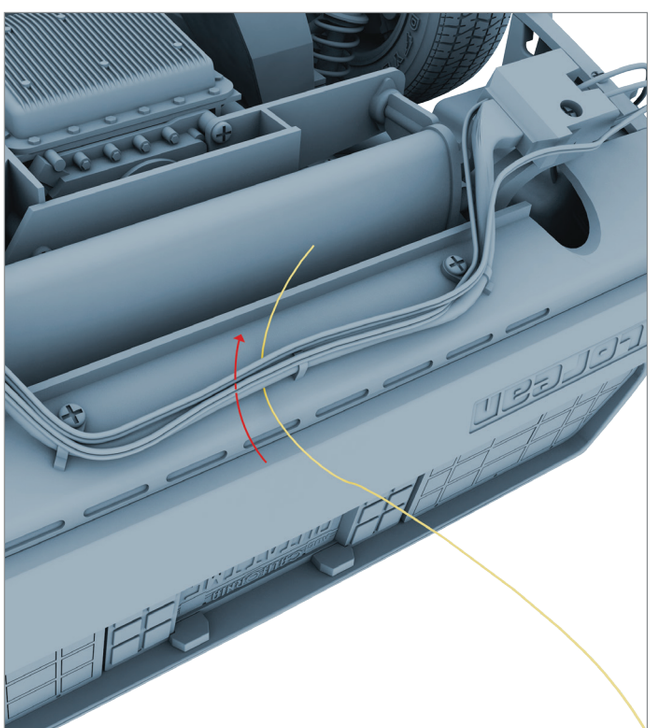

FS_p04_09_DeLorean_UK_106.indd 7 13/04/2023 16:44

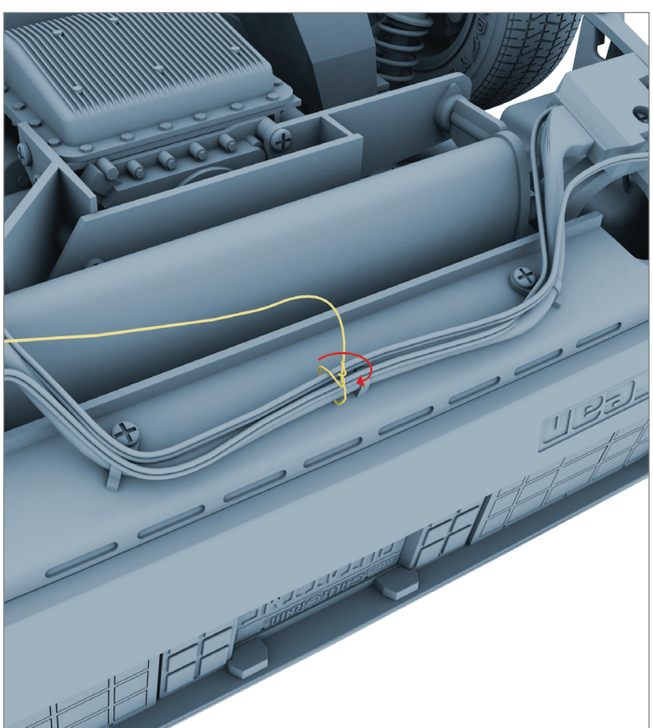

STEP 13 ›› On the other side, locate the plug on the end of the blue and red wire. Connect it to the end of the LED wire 106F.

STEP 14 ›› Arrange the red and blue LED wires as shown along the central bar of 106B.

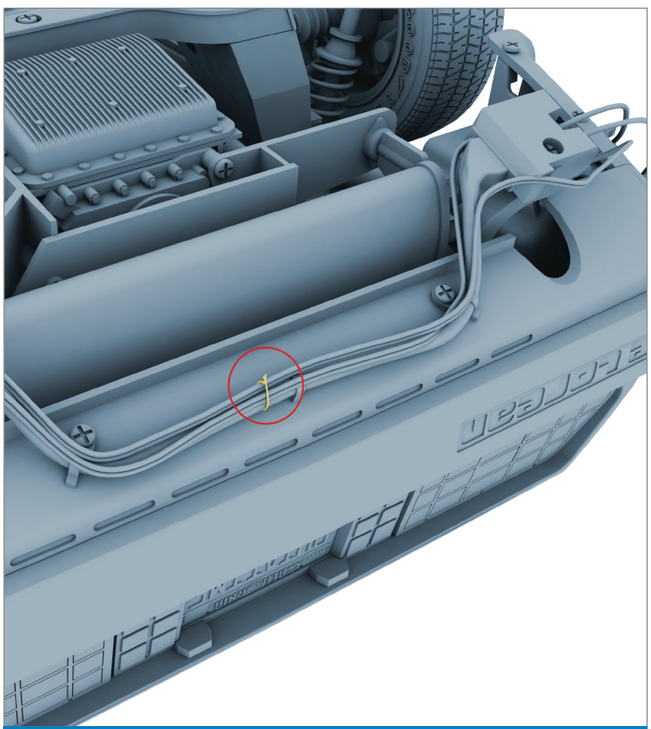

STEP 15 ›› Pass the black wire tie (106E) underneath the red and blue wires and the centre bar of 106B.

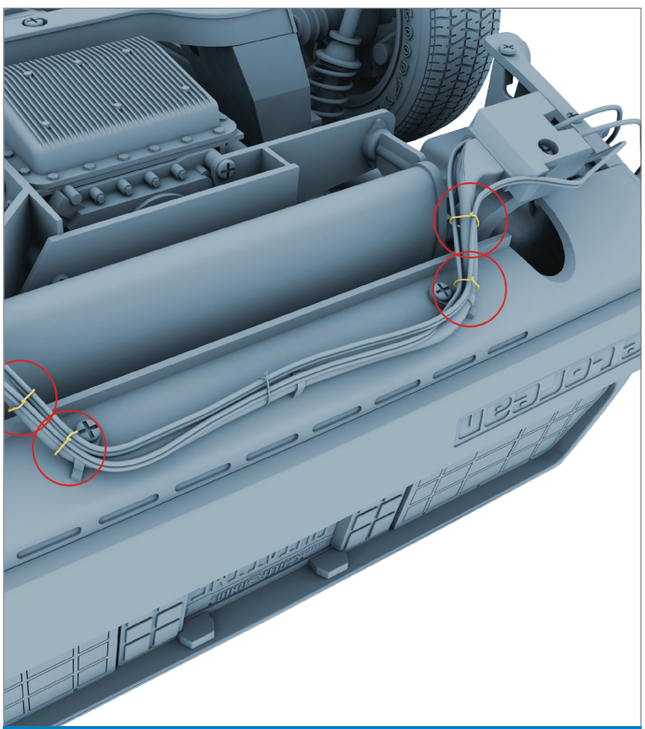

STEP 16 ›› Twist the wire tie to hold the wires and bar together. This may be easier using pliers.

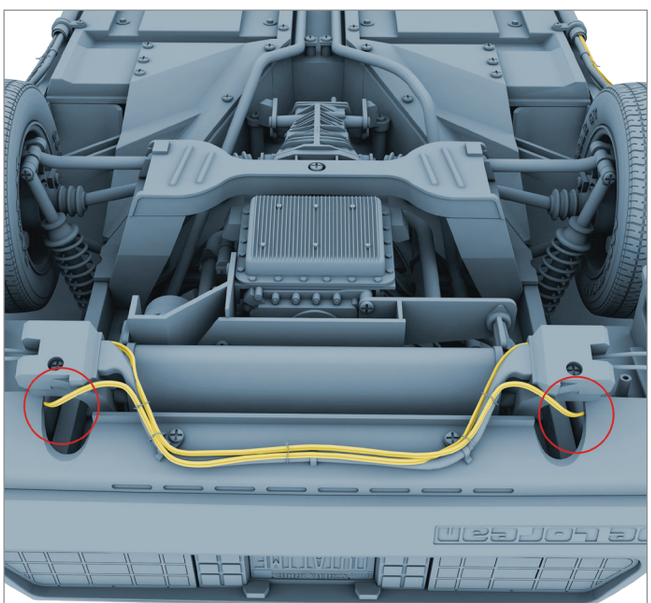

FS_p04_09_DeLorean_UK_106.indd 8 13/04/2023 16:44

STEP 17 ›› With pliers or wire cutters, cut off the excess to leave a neat tie.

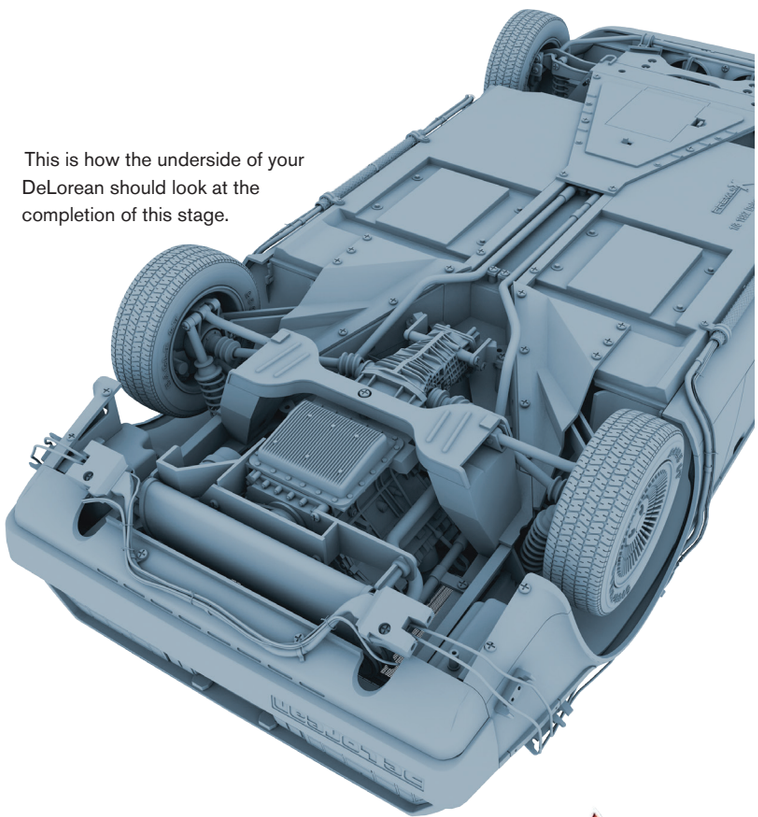

STEP 18 ›› Repeat a further four times, as shown, to keep the arrangement securely in place. Dispose of any excess black wire.

STEP 19 ›› Once all the wires are secure, tuck the plugs on the red and blue LED wires inside the chassis out of sight.

This is how the underside of your DeLorean should look at the completion of this stage.

WENDY JO SPERBER

LINDA MCFLY

The much-loved and much-missed comedy actress who played Marty's sister.

Wendy Jo Sperber is unforgettable in the small role of Marty's sister Linda in Back to the Future, helping to establish the chaotic home life of the McFly family in just one short scene.

Sperber was born in Hollywood, and wanted to perform from an early age. She attended the Teenage Drama Workshop at California State University in the 1970s, and made her first screen appearance in Matthew Robbins' 1978 teen comedy Corvette Summer, alongside Mark Hamill. She appeared in Robert Zemeckis' I Wanna Hold Your Hand (1978) as Beatles fan Rosie Petrofsky, and became part of Zemeckis' repertory company, appearing in his 1980 film Used Cars. She specialised in girl-next-door types, starring in two sitcoms, Bosom Buddies (1980–1982) with Tom Hanks, and Private Benjamin (1982–1983). After Back to the Future she starred in the TV series Babes (1990-91) and Hearts Afire (1994).

In 1997, Sperber was diagnosed with breast cancer, but with typical humour and grit, founded a charity, weSPARK, to raise money for cancer support. She organised annual fund-raising events attended by many of her friends and colleagues, raising awareness and a lot of money before her death, at the age of just 47, in 2005. ■

QUICK FACTS!

THE SHOW GOES ON

- Sperber's other TV work included Will & Grace and Grounded for Life plus the movies Desperate But Not Serious (1999) and Sorority Boys (2002). She loved physical comedy, which she also put to good use in her stand-up routines.
- Her son, Preston was born in 1986 and her daughter Pearl followed in 1990. Sperber could not appear in a proposed scene in Back to the Future Part II because she was pregnant.
- A documentary The Show Must Go On followed Sperber during the production of the 2004 weSPARKLE event.
